Synopsis

"The orange ball of the sun had risen, and two tan boys ran barefoot along the sand. They were born of the same mother, but were as different as the shores of the immense Galilee . . ." Brothers Benjamin and Joel spend their days casting their nets and dreaming about their futures. Benjamin wants to become Galilee's most prosperous fisherman, and Joel's dream is to become an important Pharisee a Jewish leader of the city. One day, they meet a strange newcomer who takes a special interest in helping them. They follow this stranger all throughout Galilee, witnessing miraculous events and listening to his wisdom. This man is a healer, and claims to be the Son of God. Benjamin believes that this kind rabbi is the city's new hero, the one they've been waiting for, but Joel isn't so sure. When tragedy strikes, Joel soon learns a valuable lesson that will change his life and the course of history.

Jesus and the Children of Galilee is the moving account of two young brothers, one an aspiring Pharisee, the other his playful fishing pal. Their encounter with Jesus Christ along the Galilee seashore is a life-altering experience for the boys. They become eye witness to the greatest love story ever told. Jesus and the Children of Galilee, by author Belinda Ford Kramer, is a must for readers of all ages --Ruth Carmichael Ellinger, author of Wild Rose Trilogy and Women of the Secret Place

Belinda Kramer is a graduate of the University of Florida. She is an educator, journalist, author, and speaker. She is also the mother of a daughter, Lauren, and son, Nathan. She resides in Brandon, Florida, with her husband Jack.

I loved that the actual Bible history was woven throughout the story. The story is powerful, as written in the Bible, but the book made me feel as though I was present during the time of Jesus's walk on this earth. There is a pure, innocence running through the story, as told and seen through the eyes of the children. It is an easy read and I feel it is appropriate for about age 10-adult.

This was a very inspiring book. Once I started it I couldn't put it down. It's a great book to read to children too!

Beautifully written story with great presentation of biblical scriptures. Very inspiring!

This is an excellent book, and highly recommended. What an amazingly talented author!

Really great book.

Wow! "Jesus and the Children of Galilee" is a beautiful book! I recommend this to everybody, as it shares a story of two brothers and how Jesus has influenced and guided them. This is a nice and crisp read, written perfectly with lots of love. I enjoy reading a book in the perspective of a child and it's refreshing to hear a story with a younger mind set. Jesus is for everyone, and it's nice to read a story with children as the main characters. This story has definitely touched my heart. READ THIS BOOK! I love the story and never get tired of it. I know Jesus would approve this book, as it describes him spot on and his love and kindness to everyone. Give this book to anyone, a child, friend, family member, teacher, preacher, chef, I mean anyone! It is super inspiring and everyone needs Jesus in their life. This is a stellar read and I would give it 1,000,000 stars if I could. It has not only touched my heart, but my whole family's.

A lovely story about two brothers who meet Jesus and learn about his teachings. This well written novel explains the Bible stories without being preachy. The characters are interesting and I loved the ending.

I loved this book and read it over two evenings in my quiet living room. The boys, Joel and Benjamin, helped me to see Jesus from a different perspective, as that of a child who has not been exposed to lots of teaching about Christ. They simply responded to his gentleness and grace. I could so picture a parent and child reading this at bedtime, perhaps taking turns with each reading a chapter and then discussing it together. I encourage parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles and friends to purchase this book. It's a great read and opens the door for more Bible reading, too. I hope Belinda has more stories in process!
