Charleston: A Good Life

Synopsis

Inspired by the legendary work of Slim Aarons, a photographic narrative tour of a beautiful, unique, historical city and the remarkable people who live there. Author Ned Brown kicks off the Good Life series with the story about what makes Charleston, South Carolina so desirable to its residents and the five million visitors who seek it out each year. This stunning coffee-table book features photographs by Gately Williams, whose work is regularly featured in Garden & Gun, Coastal Living, and other publications. With his signature ease, Brown profiles more than fifty "interesting Charlestonians, doing interesting things in a beautiful place." Charleston: A Good Life highlights native Charlestonians and those who have made the southern Holy City their home during the past two decades. Some are wealthy, many not, but all enjoy the richness of a place that has been voted the best small city in the world by Travel + Leisure magazine.

Customer Reviews

"This is an important book for and about Charleston." #151; Joseph Riley, former Charleston mayor "Ned Brown is my true north understanding Charleston's culture." #151; Michael Ware, National Geographic

Ned Brown is a full-time author and documentary television writer, creator, and producer. Ned has written dozens of stories and articles about "interesting people doing interesting things" including Charleston and its people, history, places, and events. Ned is married to a successful Charleston and Washington, DC, wedding planner, Christina Baxter, and has a son, John Patrick. Ned's home base is Charleston, South Carolina. Gately Williams is an editorial and landscape photographer who spends much of his time on the road, crisscrossing the states in his pick-up or atop one of his motorbikes. On the road, he studies landscapes and finds beauty in the sparse open landscapes that dominate the country. Internationally, his photography has taken him to Iceland, Ireland, and as far away as Morocco and Australia. Gately splits his home between Charleston, South Carolina and Belfast, Maine
