School, Family, And Community Partnerships: Your Handbook For Action

Synopsis

Build partnerships with families and the community to promote equity and student success! This updated edition of a bestseller enables school, district, and state leaders to develop more effective programs for family and community involvement. The authors show how to develop action teams to plan and implement partnership activities to reach school goals, mobilize community resources, evaluate program results, and maintain involvement over time. The third edition includes:

- New examples of successful partnership activities
- Increased attention to connecting family/community involvement to goals for student success
- New inventories that define leadership roles
- A CD-ROM with forms and a PowerPoint presentation for workshops

Customer Reviews

"The third edition is loaded with practical tools, researched-based strategies, and helpful examples for anyone wanting to implement or improve goal-linked programs of family and community involvement. A standout feature is the new CD-ROM, which provides everything needed for successful workshops-a great time-saver!" -- Jean West Lewis, Family and Community Outreach Specialist

"This is the 'bible' of parent engagement literature. The Handbook gives step-by-step examples of strategic planning for partnership programs and practices that lead to student success." -- Dave Guzman, Director, Parent Engagement

"This practical handbook offers a wealth of resources not only for those who are starting to organize their work, but also for those who are sustaining their programs of school, family, and community partnerships. You can make the guidelines fit your district's needs." -- Lorraine Landon, Director, Parent Education Center Coordinator "Useful for state leaders as well as districts and schools. It provides a research-based yet practical blueprint for organizing sustainable partnership programs to support student learning. We use the Handbook to provide training to school teams, parent leaders, school boards, superintendents, and their cabinets across California." -- Jeana Preston, Director, California Parent Center "The link between successful partnership programs and student achievement is supported by research. This book provides the tools you need to establish and sustain partnerships, both on the district and school levels. It's an invaluable resource for anyone who wants to organize an outstanding partnership program to enhance student success." -- Melissa T. McQuarrie, Director of Community Relations "It's all here-everything you need to start, sustain, and grow an effective, research-based partnership program. With the addition of a CD-ROM, the essential tools are even more accessible, portable, and adaptable to the challenges and opportunities facing our schools." -- Joe Munnich, Family and Community Involvement Coordinator

Epstein is a leader in her field, and with good reason. She uses research-based information to craft excellent activities and encourages school leaders and their staff to reach out and build important connections with vital school stakeholders. I refer to this book often and have to guard against the fact that others sometimes want to borrow it and not return it!

This book was very informative about incorporating stakeholders to work collaboratively together to provide a conducive environment for our schools.

This book was for my wife as she studied for her Doctorate. She still uses it as a great reference book. She is pleased with the book and the price.

Epstein changes the way we think about partnerships. This is an essential text for would-be administrators. This book, along with discussions, creates effective, sensitive learning leaders

Helpful for class and teaching very useful and the condition of the book was as expected and advertised.

Amazing book, every school administrator and teacher should read this

I used this book along with another Epstein edition to prep for numerous training sessions with educators. Lots of good information from a well-respected source.
